KAA settles into the new term

One week into term and Kensington Aldridge Academy (KAA) is settling in to the new academic year like other schools up and down the country - going about its job of ensuring students receive the best education possible and are equipped for the future.

With KAA now back at Silchester Road after over a year in temporary buildings, David Benson, Principal of KAA said, “It is a new normal, it is great to be back home and it feels right to be back in our community. We cannot forget what happened, it is now part of our identity and history. But that doesn't have to be a bad thing knowing that a strong community spirit will benefit us all. We are determined to ensure our students learn whilst supporting them in every way we can.”

The Academy was previously used by the community for various meetings and events before its move to temporary buildings following the tragedy at Grenfell. The community’s use of the Academy building is beginning again with a number of fitness lessons, badminton and basketball clubs, and an Arabic school all making use of the building outside of school hours. This weekend three church groups will start to hold meetings in the Academy again, as they did previously.

David Benson added, “We have to keep looking forward and do the best we can for our students and everyone at KAA is committed to ensuring our students receive the best education they can. This is the first year that KAA has all year groups since we opened and our founder students will be sitting their GCSEs this year. Hopefully they will be able to take confidence from the success and ambition of our sixth form and their achievements this year and we are all dedicated to helping them achieve their potential.”

The Academy was built to be at the heart of the community, serving North Kensington children and providing them with the opportunity to learn. Before the school’s opening, over 50 per cent of local students were forced to travel outside of the borough for secondary school.

Gift from 9/11 Memorial & Museum to Grenfell community

The National 9/11 Memorial & Museum announced on Wednesday 12 September that it is gifting a seedling from the Survivor Tree to the Grenfell community. The seedling has been grown from a tree that was badly damaged in the 9/11 terror attacks and survived. Every year on 12 September, the Memorial & Museum donates seedlings from the tree to communities that have faced and overcome tragedies.

No decision has yet been taken on where the seedling will be planted, but it could form part of the longer term Grenfell Memorial and be included and considered alongside any design proposals for the site, if this is the community’s wish.

Further detail on this announcement can be found here: bit.ly/2QqfWer

OneCommunity event fills The Curve

Hundreds gathered at The Curve Community Centre last Saturday (8 September) for a day of music, activities and family fun. The OneCommunity event had something for everyone, from the youngest (under five) to those slightly older visitors.

More than half of those who attended the event were first time visitors to The Curve, a fantastic endorsement for the centre. This is just some of what those who went had to say:

“Overwhelmed by the facilities and activities on offer, bag making, t-shirt making, great music too!”

“Very inspiring and uplifting, people of all cultures lifting spirits after Grenfell”

“Amazing event, amazing people. Thank you”
